GOP for Cutting Gas Tax One Cent

Original Levy for Flood Aid

HARRISBURG (UP)—Republican leaders in the state Senate and House of Representatives today appeared all but agreed on dropping the state gasoline tax by a penny to five cents.

Senate Republican Leader Rowland B. Mahany said today that the GOP leaders of the two chambers seemed "generally in agreement" on the move at the end of a lengthy meeting held by Republican legislative chieftains Sunday night.

The state House of Representatives already has passed legislation which would cut off a penny of the six-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax at the end of the current biennium, May 31. House Republicans never wavered in their stand that the tax, boosted a cent on an emergency basis by the last Legislature, should be cut. But Senate Republicans appeared divided on the issue immediately after Gov. George M. Leader made his case for retaining the tax at its present level when he presented the state highways budget last week.

The levy was increased to meet the cost of repairing roads and bridges damaged and destroyed by the 1955 floods in northeastern Pennsylvania. Gov. Leader contended it should be retained as a part of the state's permanent tax structure to help meet the Commonwealth's share of the federal interstate highway system.

Moves to Senate

Although most of the Republican sponsored tax program, already enacted by the House, is slated to begin moving through the Senate this week, it is doubtful that any action will be taken until later on the measure which would reduce the gasoline tax. Since the tax cut is not slated to become effective until the end of May, the Republican leadership believes there should be no hurry in getting it to the governor.

But Sen. Edward J. Kessler (R-Lancaster), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, predicted that group would send the General Fund tax bills which must be re-enacted to the Senate floor Tuesday. One exception is the sales tax which Kessler said needs clar-

Yoney to Run As Candidate For Coroner

Westmoreland County Coroner Stephen D. Yoney, of Monessen, today formally announced his candidacy for nomination on the Democratic ticket in the May 21 primary.

Yoney was appointed coroner in 1956 following the death of the elected coroner, Joseph Check, also of Monessen. He is seeking election to his first four-year term.

Yoney has been a funeral director in Monessen the past 20 years. He is a graduate of the Eckels School of Embalming, of Philadelphia, and recently was elected a director of the County Funeral Directors' Association. He is also second vice president of the Pennsylvania Coroner's Association.

Under his administration, free death certificates are issued to families of members of the armed forces whose deaths have been reported to his office. Yoney was also the first coroner to issue monthly reports of his office to newspapers.

He is married and the father of three children.

He is a member of the Elks, Lions, Eagles and several other organizations.

Coffee Prices Are Investigated

WASHINGTON (UP)— The Federal Trade Commission has been conducting a secret investigation of coffee prices for the past four months, it was disclosed today.

FTC attorneys have been quietly looking into operations on the New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange and have subpenaed 68 of "the principal members of the exchange."

This was revealed to a House Appropriations subcommittee by FTC investigations chief Harry A. Babcock at a closed-door session March 4.

Tax Cut Possible Next Year

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's budget chief said today there may be a big enough federal surplus next year for a tax cut if the line is held on spending.

Percival F. Brundage, director of the budget, said the present government spending level plus an expanding economy should show up next spring as a "potential surplus" of $5-$6 billion for the 1959 fiscal year, which starts July 1, 1958.

"Now, whether you would want to apply that to a tax cut or whether you want to apply it to debt retirement, I think, would depend on the conditions of the economy at that time," he said in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News & World Report.

Foresees Tax Cut

At another point Brundage said if federal spending can be held to between $70-72 billion "for a couple of years" the economy will "give enough bounce, enough receipts, to be able to have a tax cut."

This is one of the first hints given by the Eisenhower administration as to when tax cuts may be recommended.

Many members of Congress, including some GOP leaders, are urging a sharp cut in Mr. Eisenhower's $72 billion fiscal 1958 budget in hopes of an income tax cut this year.

But Brundage said there is no way to slash spending as much as $5-$10 billion, as called for by some, without "cutting programs." He added that Mr. Eisenhower "could cut the programs. . .but the people certainly seem to ask for all of them."

Conference Committee Meets

In other developments on the spending front:

—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif) agreed with predictions Congress will cut $1 billion out of the President's $4.4 billion foreign aid request for fiscal 1958, starting July 1. Senate Democratic "whip" Mike Mansfield (Mont) urged the $1 billion cut and transference of all arms aid to the Defense Department.

—A Senate - House Conference Committee meets today in a test of congressional sentiment on budget-cutting. The committee was to decide whether to stick to House-voted cuts in a "deficiency" appropriation or to go along with Senate increases.

Brundage said he is "not as optimistic as the secretary of the treasury (George M. Humphrey) that government spending can be cut until the world outlook is brighter."

RUNAWAY CAR CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE HERE — Sam Richard Lopresti, of 331 Third street, Monessen, was traveling east on Schoonmaker avenue near 12th street this morning at 3 a. m., when he lost control of his car. The vehicle crashed through a chain link fence, sheared off a concrete light structure and ripped up a portion of the lawn on Pittsburgh Steel Co. property before coming to a stop. Lopresti reportedly escaped uninjured. The car was heavily damaged. Looking at the damages are Jack Stevenson, left, and John Sucevic, Pittsburgh Steel employes.

Man Admits Attacking Three Women in Pittsburgh District

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Police said today that Robert Tally Davis, 29, Pittsburgh, has confessed abducting and terrorizing three women, including a prominent Pittsburgh music teacher, in a series of forays which ended Saturday night when a fourth attempt failed.

Asst. Police Supt. Adam Geisler said the tall, soft-spoken man, who was arrested in McKees Rocks, had broken under questioning early today and admitted the abductions.

Davis was caught when he attempted to force his way into an automobile occupied by Mrs. David Hershman, wife of the McKees Rocks burgess, and Mrs. Alice Rennerkamp, Hershman's secretary, as they prepared to drive away from the rear of the Hershman furniture store.

Placing a gun to Mrs. Rennerkamp's head, the man warned, "Shut up or I'll kill you." Mrs. Hershman leaped from the car screaming. Her son, Howard, who was getting into his car nearby, went to his mother's aid and Fireman Joseph Kasper, 41, also ran to the scene.

Caught by Fireman

Davis threatened them with a pistol and fled, but unwittingly ran toward the borough police station. Three officers and a fireman standing outside the building closed in on the fleeing man and Kasper, catching up, grabbed him.

Following the arrest, Geisler questioned Davis about the earlier abductions and the man admitted them. The detective said the prisoner confessed he was the man who forced his way into the car of Mrs. Marion Maazel, 62, music instructor and mother of symphony conductor Lorin Maazel, when she stopped at a traffic light in Pittsburgh.

He robbed her and forced her to

GOP to Have Candidate for District Attorney

Westmoreland County Republicans today apparently were assured of at least one candidate for their nomination for District Attorney.

He is Wayne Donahue, a New Kensington attorney and a comparatively recent convert to the GOP. He switched from the Democratic party in 1951.

Republican County Chairman Edwin A. Swink, of Mt. Pleasant, said today Donahue's name had come up at a regular weekly meeting of county leaders in Greensburg Friday night.

"I have never met the man," Swink said, "but I am told he is very capable. And it seems he is definitely a candidate."

Swink said he didn't know of any other possible candidates for DA at the present time. Next Monday, a week from today, is the last day on which nominating petitions can be filed.

Stevenson Named

NEW YORK (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, former governor of Illinois and twice-defeated Democratic presidential candidate, was named to the board of directors of the Field Foundation Sunday.

Pro-Egyptian Refugees Fight Control by UN

By UNITED PRESS

Egypt speeded clearance of the Suez Canal today, but a new Middle East crisis flared in the Gaza Strip where pro-Egyptian Arab refugees demonstrated against United Nations control.

Israeli villagers along the Gaza border demanded protection of the Israeli Army against a new series of raids by Egyptian Fedayeen commandoes this weekend and Israel warned officially the Gaza situation was nearing the explosion point.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, assistant UN secretary-general, flew from Cairo to Gaza today with Maj. Gen. E.L.M. Burns, commander of the UN Emergency Force, to study the riots against the UNEF and the refusal of local officials to cooperate with the UN.

The Gaza situation reached a peak Sunday when Danish and Norwegian troops of the UNEF fired shots over the heads of 3,000 Arabs besieging UN headquarters and drove the crowd back with rifle butts and tear gas. Several shots were reported fired at UNEF patrols on the streets of Gaza.

One Bright Spot

Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir showed Israel's concern over the developments when she stated that "unless the UNEF can effectively perform its task of preventing Fedayeen raids. . .the situation there will inevitably become explosive."

It appeared the demonstrators would force the UN to make a major political decision sooner than it hoped — when and if it would return the Gaza Strip to Egypt over Israeli protests.

One bright spot in the dark Mideast picture was an announcement in Bahrain that Saudi Arabian oil was flowing to the big refinery there for the first time since last fall's invasion of Egypt.

And Suleiman Mudarres, chief representative of the Iraq Petroleum Company in Syria, said oil pumping operations would be resumed across Syria in the next two days. Pipelines were blown up at start of the invasion.

Canal Clearing Speeded

Another was an announcement in Ismailia in the Suez Canal Zone that Egyptian frogmen had begun removing explosives from the sunken ship Edgar Bonnet and that approval for the ship's removal would be given to Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler during the day.

The Edgar Bonnet, sunk midway down the Suez Canal, and the frigate Abukir, sunk near the entrance to Suez Harbor, are the only two obstacles holding up passage of large ships through the waterway. Already ten ships were waiting to pass through the canal when it is reopened in about three weeks.

Weekend statements by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt insisting that British and French ships pay full passage to Egypt once the canal is reopened was causing concern in Western capitals.

The problem of freedom of shipping on the Gulf of Aqaba was still acute. The Israeli foreign minister warned that Israel would not accept any International Court ruling barring Israeli passage.

The showdown on the Gulf of Aqaba may come in a few weeks. Israel has announced that three American tankers would pass

Local Man Is Named Guardian Of Two Children

Before James Ditta, of Arlington, Va., died last October he followed an old Italian tradition and named his older brother, Joseph Ditta, of 1214 McMahon avenue, Monessen, guardian of his two children, Carol Inez, 5, and Susan Marie 2.

Friday Circuit Court Judge Arthur Sinclair, of Fairfax County, Virginia, upheld the wishes of the dead father.

He awarded custody of the two children to his brother here despite the fact that Susan Marie had spent the past four months with a maternal aunt in Fairfax County. The aunt, Marguerite Malatesta, and her husband, William, had filed a petition for custody of both children. Carol Inez has been living here for the past four years.

Judge Sinclair said either family would provide an excellent home for the girls but that he would have to abide by the instructions in the Ditta will naming Joseph Ditta guardian.

Scaife Verdict Is Excessive, Attorney Says

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — Counsel for Richard Mellon Scaife, 24, a member of the Pittsburgh industrial and banking family, asked for the setting aside of a $105,777 damage verdict against the socialite on grounds the jury returned an excessive verdict because of the prominence of the family name.

The verdict, returned in favor of Arthur W. Rain Jr., Penn Borough, his wife, two children and his parents, grew out of an automobile collision.

"If the defendant in this case was not Richard Mellon Scaife, the verdict never would have been above $30,000 instead of $105,000," attorney A. N. Pershing told the Westmoreland County Court en banc in arguing for a new trial.

Pershing said the verdict was excessive and that the trial judge had made an error in ruling on the admissability of evidence.

Lyle C. Wilson Suffers Attack

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today expressed the hope that Lyle C. Wilson, United Press vice president and Washington manager, would recover rapidly from a heart attack he suffered last week.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said that the President, who suffered a coronary thrombosis in 1955, asked him to express his hopes that Wilson's "condition improves rapidly and he gets out of the hospital soon."

Wilson is under treatment in Doctors' Hospital which he entered Saturday. The hospital reported this morning that he spent a very restful night.

GOP Directors Plan Strategy For '58 Race

WASHINGTON (UP) — The "board of directors" of the Republican Party goes to work today on a battle plan for regaining control of Congress in the 1958 elections.

The meeting of the Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee was the first to be called by Meade Alcorn, who succeeded Leonard W. Hall as party chairman last month.

Chairmen of the Republican Senate and House Campaign committees were invited to sit in the closed session of the 22-member Executive Committee.

Alcorn scheduled a news conference later this afternoon to discuss results of the meeting.

Alcorn said he was ready to offer specific recommendations on how the GOP can elect members of Congress and governors in the 1958 election.

The GOP faces an uphill battle in the 1958 campaign. It needs to gain two Senate seats and 18 House seats to win control of the two chambers.

Alcorn said the Republicans have a good program—"the Eisenhower program, which the American people approved by more than a 9½ million plurality in the 1956 elections."

"I believe the voters realize they should give President Eisenhower a Republican Congress in '58 to work in harmony with him and carry out his policies," he said.

Communism Passing, Dulles Tells SEATO

CANBERRA, Australia (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told the opening session of the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) Council today that Communism imposed on the peoples of Asia is a "passing and not a permanent phase."

World Communism itself is "but a transient if painful episode in the history of mankind," he said.

But he said the Soviets have persistently sought to foment trouble and the SEATO nations must remain on guard. He said the United States is determined to respond to its security pact obligations and "the determination is backed by power."

Observers said the United States was expected to propose at this third SEATO meeting that the organization be enlarged to include such nations as South Viet Nam, Ceylon and Burma and with larger contributions to the organization by the member nations.

South Viet Nam is bound by Geneva agreements which would limit any participation in SEATO. Ceylon and Burma previously rejected approaches to join the organization.

Dulles reviewed SEATO achievements in southeast Asia and added:

"We need, however, also to look beyond the confines of our own treaty area. Events elsewhere have been dramatic and instructive. Since we last met it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that the materialistic rule of Communism will never meet the aspirations with which human beings are endowed by their Creator."

Uniontown Man Is not Wanted

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Harry C. Dilinger, Uniontown, was convinced today that his wife and 16-year-old daughter don't want him around the house.

Dillinger filed an information with an alderman charging that when he went to the home of his estranged wife Sunday, she met him with a blast from a shotgun, which struck him in the legs. He further charged that his daughter threw rocks at his automobile.

Forty pellets were removed from Dillinger's legs at Uniontown Hospital.

Dairy Farm Owner Is Area Traffic Fatality

A well known district dairy farm owner, John Long, 47, of Forward Township, either died of a heart attack before a motor accident or from a fractured skull received during the accident late yesterday afternoon on a road between Pangborn Hollow and East Monongahela.

George Hines, a Township police officer, said he believes Long, known to be a "good" driver, died of a heart attack before the accident took place at 5:45 p. m.

Hines said his investigation revealed that Long was traveling on Riber Hill Road when his car shot out of control and knocked over several small trees before coming to a stop against a large tree. The impact, he said, tore off the hood and pushed the car's motor through the front panel.

Long was found on the floor at the right front end of the car, leading Hines to believe that Long keeled over from a heart attack before the accident took place.

A neighbor, according to the police officer, said he heard the car roaring down the road but could see no one in it. The car, the neighbor told Hines, was traveling on the wrong side of the road.

Hines said Long was dead when he arrived to investigate the mishap.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Monongahela Memorial Hospital.

Long was well known among dairy farmers and was also active in many sports, particularly polo playing.

Miss Blatt would not elaborate on the statement because she said she expected to be called as a witness in the investigation of the board and its activities.

The state official said that Bucks County was "one of the most dynamic counnties of the state" and added that "one of these days it is going to be a strong rival to Allegheny and Philadelphia counties in political importance."

She told the annual dinner of the Middle District of the Bucks County Democratic Committee "there is not another county in the state where there has been more rapid growth or where there has been so many problems stemming from the growth."

Warns Many Deaths in Atomic Attack

Peterson For Mass Shelters

WASHINGTON (UP) — Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson has warned Congress that without access to mass shelters 98 per cent of America's city dwellers might die in surprise atomic attack.

Even with the best shelters possible, he said, 40 per cent of the city populace could be lost.

Peterson said in closed-door testimony published today that he has recommended to the White House a shelter building program to cost $32 billion.

He does not know what the White House will decide. But that in any event, he said, he does not believe the shelter program should be oversold as an absolute answer to atomic attack.

Millions Would Diet

"In a thermonuclear war there are no means of saving all of the people," Peterson warned. "It simply can't be done. We are going to lose millions of people if we have a war."

Peterson testified before a House appropriations subcommittee on Feb. 6, seeking an appropriation of $130 million for civil defense in the fiscal year starting July 1. Previous civil defense requests have been heavily cut by Congress.

Other highlights of Peterson's testimony:

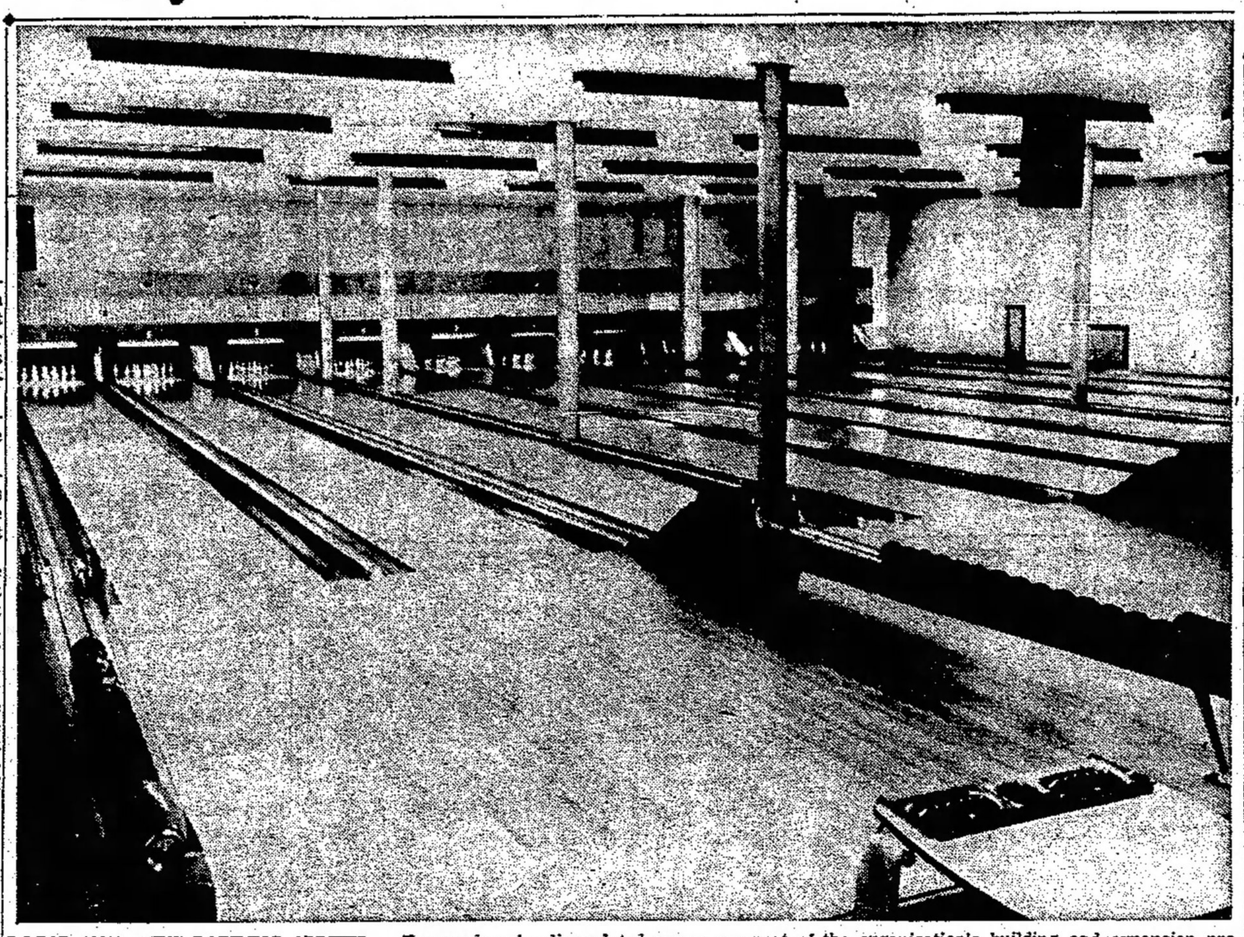
—His agency wants to junk the "Conelrad' emergency broadcasting system for use in an enemy attack. Instead, it would like to "take over" all radio and television stations immediately on receipt that enemy planes are on the way.

—The atomic bomb, however destructive, may not be the ultimate weapon. He finds no reason "to believe that mankind has reached the zenith of its destructive ability."

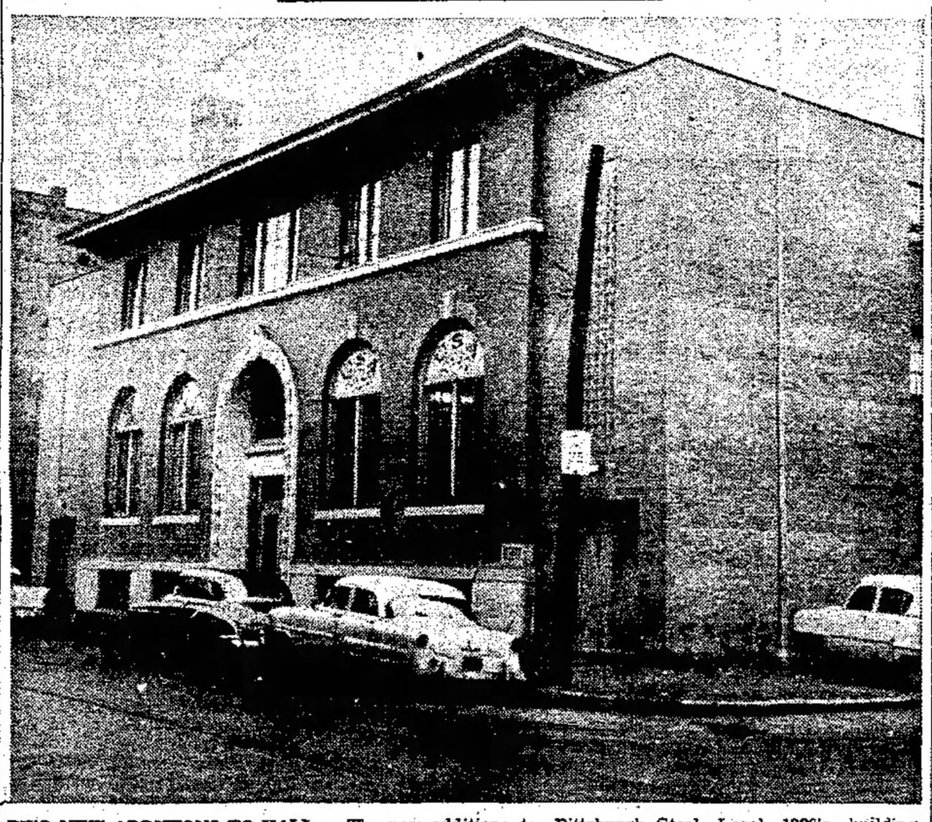
—His agency will spend $100,000 next year studying "human reactions to disaster." This is "probably the most important item in the budget because nobody knows whether the American people will be willing to fight if some one starts dropping nuclear weapons on them . . . (or) whether you will have complete chaos, pandemonium . . ."

—His experts believe only about 100,000 of the nation's million hospital beds would be left after an all-out enemy attack. Civil defense has emergency facilities for 400,000 beds and wants $42.5 million to buy more.

Peterson's budget request includes $2,300,000 for work on test shelters but nothing for their general construction.



LOCAL 1229's NEW BOWLING ALLEYS — Ten modern bowling alleys have been installed at Pittsburgh Steel Local 1229's building at Eighth street and Donner avenue. The alleys and other recreational rooms are part of the organization's building and expansion program. The alleys, which have been in use since Dec. 5, will be formally dedicated this summer.



TWO NEW ADDITIONS TO HALL — The new additions to Pittsburgh Steel Local 1229's building have entrances to the new bowling alleys on the top floor. The addition on the right also houses spacious sitting and locker rooms. The exterior of the building has been cleaned.

$107,000 Spent Remodeling At USW Local 1229 Hall

Present and future building and expansion plans of Pittsburgh Steel Monessen Local 1229, United Steelworkers of America, will make the group's headquarters at Eighth street and Donner avenue one of the most modern in Western Pennsylvania, Anthony Ortolona, president, said today.

When the expansion program is completed, Ortolona said the building will house larger and up-to-date meeting rooms and several recreation rooms.

The organization has already spent $107,000 on 10 new bowling alleys, rest rooms, locker rooms, sitting lounge and the complete cleansing of the brick exterior.

Eighteen tons of air-conditioning units are being installed in the 10-lane bowling alleys at a cost of $10,509.

Partial Additions

Partial additions have been made to each side of the building. One addition includes the new and spacious locker rooms. Both additions have steps leading to the alleys on the third floor.

Ortolona said the alleys are open to all members of USW and their friends.

The brightly illuminated alleys, which have been in use since Dec. 5, are the most modern in the district and were installed at a cost of approximately $4,000 per lane. Ortolona said the alleys operate on a non-profit basis and all receipts go into the local's sick and accident fund.

The alleys are being managed by Robert Kyle and Sam Dominico.

Future plans, according to Ortolona, call for the remodeling of the main meeting hall. A new public address system will be installed and a new stage erected. The hall will be expanded to accomodate between 1,100 and 1,200 persons for banquets; making it one of the largest banquet rooms in the district.

The basement of the building will also be completely remodeled. It will contain locker rooms, showers and recreational facilities for retired steelworkers.

Ortolona said the local plans a huge dedication program sometime this summer. He is seeking to have USW President David J. McDonald here for the occasion.

Ortolona called on other local establishments to undergo remodeling programs, stating:

"We believe Local 1229 is giving the City a recreational center that it needed badly. We'd like to see every establishment in Monessen improve their businesses. Let's continue to make Monessen a nicer place in which to live."

Begin Inquiry Into Crash of Tanker, Freighter

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — A three man Coast Guard board of inquiry today began investigating the March 7 crash of a navy tanker and a Liberian freighter in the Delaware River which cost 10 lives.

Capt. Alexander Karre, Toronto, Can., skipper of the freighter Elna II was expected to be one of the first witnesses called. It was understood that 50 or 60 witnesses might testify before the inquiry ends.

The board is headed by Capt. Gaines Tyler, New York. The other two members are Comm. Roderick Y. Edwards, captain of the Port of Philadelphia, and Comm. Frederick Arzt, New York.

The board will attempt to determine if there was negligence in the crash of the Elna and the tanker Mission San Francisco.

The vessels crashed and the San Francisco exploded early in the morning of March 7, with the loss of 10 lives; 58 men were rescued.

Meanwhile, operations to clear the ship channel of the wreckage to restore full use of the channel continued. None of the 10 bodies has been recovered.

But the Gaza Strip was the current hotspot and informed sources in Cairo said the current wave of demonstrations would settle soon the question of whether Egypt will resume control of the area, awarded it by the 1949 Palestine armistice.

The Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported that Canadian troops of the UNEF seriously wounded Mohamed Elmusharref, a 30-year-old Palestinian, when he tried to replace the blue and white UN flag with the green and white of Egypt.

The United Nations began an immediate investigation of the report which could stir up even more serious rioting in Gaza. There was not even confirmation Canadian troops were involved in the Sunday rioting.

Republican opposition to retaining the gasoline tax at current levels apparently solidified over the week end after House GOP leader Albert W. Johnson insisted that the state would not lose any federal road subsidies, even with the reduced tax rate.

Johnson said that the state could build "every mile of highway" authorized under the federal interstate highway program without retaiomomg the full six-cents-a-gallon state gasoline tax.

Senate Probers Await Beck

Teamsters Head in The U. S.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee has found evidence of ties between union officials and underworld characters, but no evidence racketeers infiltrated the AFL-CIO Teamsters Union itself, a committee member said today.

Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich), a former official of the Steamfitters Union, said hearings so far have not turned up "too much" of a link between the Teamsters and the Portland, Ore., underworld.

The committee, in recess today, began a new stage of its waiting game with Teamster President Dave Beck.

No Subpena Issued

Beck, travelling under the name of "Mr. David," flew into New York from Europe Sunday and sped by plane to his home in Seattle, Wash., evading all questions as to whether he will appear before the committee.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), committee chairman, said on being informed of Beck's return, "I assume he will get in touch with the committee soon."

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said no subpena has been prepared for Beck and the committee is waiting for him to turn over his "personal financial" records as requested three weeks ago.

Carey Blasts Beck

The committee wants to see Beck's records, and eventually question him, about charges involving his $160,000 home near Seattle and allegations of racket links of his biggest-in-the-nation union.

The Teamster chief was the target of another blast Sunday by AFL-CIO Vice President James B. Carey. Carey said Beck has brought the trade union movement "into disgrace" by "tolerating" corruption within his union.

Carey said Beck does not comply with the AFL-CIO constitution, its code of ethics or its anti-raiding policy, and does not respect the rights of other unions.

He said labor is "going to be smeared" by the committee hearings, but added he does not believe the group is "intentionally" doing this.

CLAIM MAYOR GOT BRIBE — Gambler-Bootlegger Clifford O. Bennett (left) is shown on Senate labor probe witness stand in Washington after several other witnesses said he gave $500 bribe to Portland, Ore., Mayor Terry D. Schrunk, also shown (right) at the hearing. At the time, the mayor was sheriff. Schrunk said the accusation was "fantastic." The witnesses said the bribe was for not raiding an after-hours "dive." As for Bennett, all he would give in the way of information was name and address.

Shipwreck Cupid to These Two

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UP) — An Italian-born couple whose romance began with the sinking of the liner Andrea Doria honeymooned today — but their troubles were just beginning.

The groom, 28-year-old John Vali, must return to Canada this week without his wife because he is not an American citizen and his permission to stay is about to expire.

That means his bride, Melanie Ansuini, 19, must remain with her parents here "until I can find a way to bring her to Canada," Vali said.

Their romance began when Vali was returning to Canada aboard the Andrea Doria. He had been to Italy to look for a wife — but he had found no one to his liking.

On the liner he spotted Melanie. There was a girl he'd like to know better. But like any well-bred Italian miss traveling alone, she lowered her eyes at the approach of any strange man.

Leaps in Water

Melanie was traveling to California, her first trip to the United States, to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Ansuini in San Jose.

Vali never got up the nerve to speak to Melanie until the night when the Andrea Doria and the liner Stockholm collided.

Melanie lost her grip sliding down a rope to a lifeboat and fell into the sea. Her head struck the edge of a lifeboat and she was knocked unconscious.

Vali was in the lifeboat at the time. He jumped to her rescue. When she regained consciousness, he told her over and over, "Don't be scared."

He held her for 20 minutes in the cold water before a lifeboat from the liner Ile de France picked them up. Safe aboard the French liner, he won a promise from Melanie to write. The romance flourished through their correspondence. He proposed and she accepted.

They were married Sunday in Holy Family Church before 125 friends and neighbors.

"I wasn't nervous," said the beaming groom, "just glad."

"Maybe you liked your mother's cooking better because it didn't cost you anything."

GOP to Use Police Issue in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, (UP)—Republicans made clear today they will make the administration of the Pittsburgh Police Department a major issue in their bid to win control of the city government in this year's elections.

Allegheny County GOP Chairman Edward L. Flaherty has called for a federal investigation of the police force. He cited the wounding of the head of the vice and narcotics squad in an after-hours drinking club and the assignment of a city detective as a personal bodyguard to United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald as irregularities which should be targets of an open inquiry.

The incidents, he said, "are not isolated cases as the administration would like to have the public believe." Flaherty said Mayor David L. Lawrence, Democratic candidate for re-election, "obviously does not want to take the consequences" of an impartial investigation.

The GOP chairman said the Department of Public Safety's investigation into the wounding of Lt. Allen Carnahan Feb. 24 was only a "wrist slapping." Carnahan has told several versions of his wounding, the last being that he was shot accidentally by Shirley Cavanaugh, 28, who has a record of convictions for prostitution.

The assignment of Detective Joseph Becker to guard McDonald on out of town trips early this year resulted in the union president reimbursing the city for salary paid the detective for the period. Mayor Lawrence said he asked the police department to make the detective's assignment because McDonald had received threats on his life.

The Pittsburgh Police Department also has drawn criticism from the Allegheny County League of Women Voters. Mrs. R. Templeton Smith and Mrs. Constance Field, league representatives, called on U.S. Atty. D. Malcolm Anderson for an investigation of the force.

The women charged that criminals appear to operate in the city in safety, "or if not in safety, at least they operate on relatively good odds."

Nixon to Visit With Selassie For Two Days

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon flies here today for a two-day visit with Emperor Haile Selassie and a first-hand look at reports of Egyptian subversion against this ancient kingdom.

Nixon's plane left Kampala, Iganda, this morning and he was to arrive in the later afternoon. Torrential downpours have swept Addis Ababa for several days, and officials feared the rainy season might interfere with the reception arrangements.

Nixon is expected to discuss Ethiopia's recent request for additional aid as well as recent broadcast appeals by Cairo Radio for the Moslem areas of Ethiopia to break away from the Coptic Christian government and form a Moslem state. There also were reports Egypt has trained youths for subversive activities here.

Nixon, at a news conference before leaving Uganda, said international Communism had suffered a "very great setback" in the four nations he has visited so far—Morocco, Ghana, Liberia and Uganda.

He said Africa was a major target of Communism because of its tremendous resources and its 200 million people, but he said the Russian repression in Hungary had had a "tremendous effect" on the peoples of the nations.

Ike Meeting With Leaders Of Government

WASHINGTON (UP) —President Eisenhower called congressional and cabinet leaders to separate White House conference today in an apparent effort to clear his desk before departing for a brief vacation in Florida.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President's cough and cold are "improving" and the inflamation of his left ear is "getting better."

While plans for the Florida trip are not definite, Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower still expects to leave later this week for a few days of sun and relaxation before flying to his meeting with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in Bermuda.

The President's departure for Florida will not come before Wednesday, Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower will hold a news conference here on Wednesday.

Begin Inquiry Into Unusual Plane Accident

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Civil Aeronautics Board officials today began an investigation of the crash of an Eastern Air Lines passenger plane which crashed while landing Sunday, shearing off a wing and skidding 100 feet on its top.

Five of the 31 passengers aboard were injured but only one of them required hospitalization. William A. Brown, of Birmingham, was held for observation overnight at St. Joseph Infirmary, where he was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Injured but not requiring hospitalization were: Brown's wife, Mrs. Ruby Brown, 60; Robert Braun, 48, Huntsville, Ala.; W.H. Wilmot, 40, Tooele, Utah, Frank Spann, 36, Nashville.

The plane, en route from Chicago to Miami, was a total loss. The crash occurred as the plane touched down on the runway, bounced 40 to 50 feet into the air, careened several hundred feet and overturned, ripping off the left wing and engine assembly.

The sheared-off engine caught fire but was extinguished quickly by Standiford Field emergency trucks.

Crew members said there was no panic despite the fact that the passengers were dangling upside down by their safety belts after the craft came to a jarring halt.

Five Day Forecast

Western Pennsylvania: Temperature will average six to 10 degrees above normal. Slow warming trend except brief cooling Wednesday and again Saturday. Rain Tuesday and again Friday. Total amount about three-quarters of an inch.

$250,000 Fire Guts Building

BRADFORD, Pa. (UP) — The 15-year-old Loyal Order of Moose lodge here, a three-story brick structure, was gutted today by fire that caused an estimated $250,000 damage.

A passerby noticed smoke pouring from the structure in the early morning hours and notified fire authorities. All available equipment in the city was rushed to the scene, but the flames engulfed all three floors.

The fire-fighters were able to prevent the blaze from spreading to adjoining buildings in the downtown area. While the cause was undetermined, authorities expressed belief the blaze broke out in one of the two bars in the well-appointed building.

The damage estimate was made by both fire authorities and Moose officials.

Young Woman Hurt in Crash

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa. (UP)—Beverly D. Winters, 23, Canton, Ohio, was in Citizens General Hospital today with severe injuries suffered when she lost control of her automobile on the Pennsylvania Turnpike and the car careened across the medial strip into the path of an approaching tractor-trailer.

Miss Winters was trapped in the wrecked car for about an hour Sunday before workers, using acetylene torches could free her. The doors were jammed and she was pinned to the seat by the emergency brake handle, which pierced her thigh.

The hospital said she suffered a fractured leg, deep lacerations of the face, legs and body, and possible internal injuries. Her condition was reported fair.

Come Now, Henry!

DETROIT (UP)— Henry Ford has been driving the same car since 1923 for a total of 450,000 miles. Rev. Ford, 92, a retired Baptist minister, says his ancient Willys-Knight sedan is in "good shape" because "I don't know anything about how it works. When something goes wrong I get a mechanic."

Military News Leaks Worry House Probers

WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators demanded an explanation today of what they called "shocking" features in a Defense Department report on how to plug military news leaks.

A House Government Operations subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif) summoned members of the so-called Coolidge Committee to testify about Defense Department information policies.

The Coolidge Committee, headed by Boston lawyer Charles A. Coolidge, reported Nov. 8 on a survey of Pentagon secrecy policies.

Moss said his subcommittee was particularly concerned about one "distasteful" and "shocking" recommendation made by the Coolidge group. This urged that a newsman be called before a grand jury, if necessary, to uncover his source of any "leak" which "obviously gravely damages the security of the nation."

Moss said his subcommittee thus far has found that most leaks resulted from military efforts to "manage the news" rather than from a newsman's attempt to "misuse security information."

He said in a statement that he wanted the Coolidge Committee to elaborate on its recommendations and give "specific examples" of any leaks damaging to national security.

Moss said his group agrees with some of the Coolidge findings, such as one that too much information is put under secrecy wraps by the Pentagon.

But he said other recommendations "appear to go far beyond what is desirable or necessary."

Eden Ordered to Rest for Few Days

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UP) —Former British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden, who suffered a new attack of fever last Thursday, has been ordered to rest for a few more days, it was announced today.

Doctors said his temperature has fallen and he showed "good progress" during the weekend

Taxing Problem

TAIPEI (UP)— The "kindness" of the Nationalist Chinese tax collectors costs the government some $10 million a year. Vice-Finance Minister Chen Han-ping reported the people owed the government more than 250 million Formosan dollars ($10 million U.S.) in 1955 alone He accused the tax collectors of being "too kind," since no arrests were made and no shop was closed for failing to pay taxes.

Earthquakes Cause Tidal Wave Damage

HONOLULU (UP) — Residents of Hawaii, Japan and California today worked at repairing damage caused by a quake-spawned weekend tidal wave that fanned out across the Pacific from the Aleutian Islands.

The tidal wave was the result of two huge earthquakes that shook the ocean floor off the Aleutians Saturday.

The University of California reported another large earthquake Sunday night. The university's seismographic laboratory said the quake was about 3000 miles from Berkeley in an undetermined direction.

The new quake was first felt at 10:20 p.m. EST and had "just about died out" three hours later.

Two persons lost their lives as an indirect result of Saturday's tidal wave in Hawaii. Sarah Park, 19, reporter from the Honolulu Star Bulletin, and a pilot, Paul Beam, were killed when the small plane from which they were observing the tidal wave crashed into the ocean.

Gov. Samuel Wilder King of Hawaii declared the north coast of Kauai Island a disaster area. Territorial officials estimated the damage at "hundreds of thousands of dollars."

The tidal wave washed away two small villages, destroying 30 homes and four bridges. Damage was slight elsewhere in the Hawaiian Islands but the beaches were littered with dead fish and debris.

In Japan, waves two to three feet high hit the eastern coast of Hokkaido, Japan's most northerly island, early Sunday. The tidal wave destroyed or damaged 145 homes and 18 boats.

Reports of the tidal wave caused an alert up and down the California coast. Hours after the danger was thought to be over, a sweep of water swept into San Diego Bay Saturday night, causing minor damage to five private boats and causing $5000 damage to floating wooden docks.

Inquiry into Pardons Board Aetion in Erie Scandal Will Resume

HARRISBURG (UP)—The legislative committee investigating the state Pardons Board is expected this week to renew its inquiry into commutations granted several former Erie officials involved in that city's 1954 bribery scandal.

The investigators are especially interested in the case of former Erie Mayor Thomas J. Flatley, convicted of conspiracy and violation of oath of office, whose 18-month sentence was reduced on the board's recommendation to 11 months and five days.

The committee seeks to determine the circumstances surrounding the board's "reconsideration" of an original commutation of 12-months, which was changed, apparently without public notice, to permit Flatley's release before Christmas, 1955.

Flatley's commutation and the board's official recommendation to) Gov. George M. Leader, dated Oct. 4, 1955, both bear signs of erasure and alteration of the commutation date.

Attorney General Thomas D. McBride, acting as legal counsel for the board during the hearings, told the committee that the change was made after the board "reconsidered" its original commutation order after receiving several appeals, including one from sentencing Judge Elmer Evans, for Flatley's release in time for the holidays.

McBride said it was not necessary for the board to hold another hearing on the commutation because there was only one reduction granted and that was on the basis of the hearing held Oct. 2, 1955.

A one-time editor of the Erie Times, Harold J. Sullivan, testified last Wednesday that he received a telephone call the day after the Nov. 1955 elections from Erie Mayor Arthur J. Gardner. Sullivan said Gardner told him that Gov. Leader wanted to check public reaction to Flatley's release before granting clemency Sullivan said he told Gardner that he thought the reaction would be favorable.

According to Sullivan, Gardner said Gov. Leader had called him prmiarily to congratulate him on his election, but also wanted to know what community feeling in Flatley's case was.

Both the governor and Mayor Gardner have denied that such calls were made.

However, it may be noted that, earlier, when the committee was investigating Delaware County cases, two judges protested that commutations in several recent cases were granted without regard for public opinion and told the committee that the board should "be more responsive" to community feeling.

The committee resumes its hearings in the Capitol Wednesday and expects to complete testimony in the Erie County cases. Next in line for scrutiny will probably be the Darcy case which touched off the investigation when charges of "political considerations" were raised against Gov. Leader's commutation of the convicted killer's death sentence last September.

The six-member joint committee is scheduled to report on its findings to the General Assembly early next month.

Shady Stock Dealers Active In the Market

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government is preparing criminal prosecutions against shady stock dealers who are trading on a get-rich-quick mood in the current stock market, it was disclosed today.

The information was contained in testimony by J. Sinclair Armstrong, chairman of the Securities & Exchange Commission, before a House appropritations subcommittee Feb. 7. The testimony was made public today.

Armstrong said Americans are becoming suckers for phony stock deals just as they were in the boom days of the 1920s and there is a "tremendous" increase in the amount of fraud.

"There is an atmosphere in the country today which I think has not existed since 1928, that you can get rich in the stock market," Armstrong testified. "People are in the mood to be gullible... there have been great losses sustained

He said the SEC has obtained a number of injunctions against shady stock dealers and is preparing criminal cases against some He did not mention specific cases.

Quiz Expert Answers Thousands of Letters

(Charles Van Doren, the sensational TV quiz show champion, has written an open letter replying to his fans through the United Press. He reveals that while he has won $143,000, he has been asked for loans totalling almost $500,000)

Dear Friends:

In the last few weeks my life has changed a good deal. That, of course, is an understatement; and having written it I sit here at the typewriter pondering the amazing changes that have occurred. One of the most extraordinary, I think, is in the matter of mail.

I love to get mail. I always have. Days when there was nothing in the mailbox when I got home, or when there were only one or two circulars, were unhappy ones for me. When letters did come, I would write long answers to them in the hope that they would be answered in turn. All that is quite different now. Late I have been receiving between 100 and 200 letters every day.

They are wonderful letters. They come from all over the United States—from little towns that I never heard of and from the great cities—and from 20 or more foreign countries as well. Most of them wish me luck, and I have felt many times that they have helped me to do what I've done on "21".

Many of them tell me that my example has been an inspiration to the writers, or to the children of the writers, to go back to school or to study and learn new things. Those letters have made me very happy—first as a teacher, second as one who believes that the more knowledge people have the better able they are to live good, useful lives.

Many have given me practical advice, which I have not always taken; many more have asked my advice, and I have given it when I could. Some have asked me to send pictures of myself, but I'm afraid I am not a movie star with a large organization to answer requests of that sort, and I have not been able to send them. Others have asked to borrow money, but since the requests total at the moment between $400,000 and $500,000, I hardly see where I can satisfy them all!

Taken all together, receiving these letters has been the greatest experience of my life. I have wanted to answer them all; I would like to be able to write a long letter in reply to each of them. But that is impossible. I have sent thousands of cards expressing my gratitude, but of course I realize that a printed card is insufficient return for the warmth the writers have shown for me. Therefore I take this opportunity to say thank you, from the bottom of my heart, for all the letters I have received, for the ones I have not yet had time even to open (although I will open them all), and for the ones that are still to come. Thank you for writing. Thank you for your good wishes. Thank you for your help.

Yours sincerely,
Charles Van Doren

Your Health—

Rib Often a Casualty When You Have A Fall

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

With everyone scurrying about so busily these days, falls are an ever-present hazard, especially for elderly people. And a fall frequently means a fractured rib.

Even if there is no swelling or deformity noticable, a mere tender spot might indicate a broken rib. This is especially likely if breathing causes pain at a central spot.

Generally, rib fractures occur in the lower part of the chest toward the sides.

Broken ends of a rib are subjected continually to the motion of breathing. If the broken ends touch the underlying sensory nerves, there is apt to be pain with every breath.

Fortunately, nature helps to heal broken ribs. The soft tissues and adjoining ribs serve as splints and usually immobilize the fractured bones sufficiently to permit healing.

But whether there is pain or not, a fractured rib requires the prompt attention of a doctor. There's always the possibility of an internal injury. Then, too, if left to heal by itself without adequate care, a respiratory infection might develope.

If there is no pain or wound, you probably won't have to apply a bandage.

However, if there is pain, a cravat bandage usually is advisable until the patient gets to a doctor. The bandage should be about two inches wide around the lower portion of the chest.

Sometimes it might be necessary to apply additional bandages both above and below the original one. The main thing is to immobilize the chest. This is best done by bandaging the lower portion even if the injury is well above that.

Bandaging, however, is only a temporary measure to relieve pain until a doctor can be consulted.

If the bandage doesn't relieve the pain sufficiently, heat may be applied to the site.

The best thing, however is to get medical attention as promptly as possible.

Newsmen's 'Right' To Visit China

THIS PAPER has not seen fit to join the general clamor among newspaper editors and publishers against the State Department's policy of discouraging American reporters from entering Communist China.

We are in the minority in this matter. The majority view is that the representatives of a free press should go wherever there is news that deserves to be reported, risking their hides if necessary. And this duty, it is said, transcends any considerations of national policy.

This is an heroic concept of the reporter's duty, and to a considerable extent we share it. We can also see great value to the American people if they could read objective reports about what is going on in Communist China although we doubt very much whether such reports are obtainable under present circumstances.

What we cannot agree to is that the government must have one policy concerning the travel abroad of newspaper people and a different policy for other citizens. If the government feels that it is dangerous for one American to travel in Red China, it is also dangerous for another American. And it would be an odd policy, it seems to us, that would say to the businessman, for example, we can't let you go to China because we can't guarantee your safety and to the reporter, go ahead into China — your safety is no concern of ours.

* * *

IN THOSE newspapers which are plugging hardest for the "right" of reporters to go to China, we have seen no discussion of what would be their attitude in case harm were to come to their reporters in China by some action of the Communists. Are they telling us that they would not insist that the American government try to rescue the reporters or that public opinion would not insist upon such an effort?

It is not at all inconceivable that an American reporter visiting China in quest of news could become the subject of an international incident, the kind of incident that could lead to war. In fact, in view of the Chinese Reds' treatment of other Americans in their hands, including prisoners of war, is it not a reasonable possibility that serious difficulties could arise?

We like to think we are as appreciative of the value of news as anybody. But we doubt very seriously whether news of sufficient value is available in Red China now to justify the risks involved in obtaining it, including the risk of war.

To be entirely candid about it, we suspect that much of the sentiment for changing the State Department's policy comes from journalists who are as much interested in stunts as in news. We have nothing against journalistic stunts; in fact, we have been parties to them on occasion. But when and if this country goes to war with Red China, we want it to be over something a lot more vital to our national interests than the urge of some journalistic zealots to taste forbidden fruit.

Paying for Politics

THE PEOPLE of Westmoreland County have just had another reminder of the wasteful fashion in which their Congressman, Rep. Augustine B. Kelley, uses the federal funds which are made available to him for secretarial help.

One of Mr. Kelley's five secretaries, James Kelly, has announced that he was required to resign because he had become active in behalf of a candidate for judge of whom the Congressman apparently does not approve. The news accounts brought out that, besides his salary as a secretary to Congressman Kelley ($3,203 a year), Mr. Kelly reputedly is paid about $8,000 as a full-time official of the United Mine Workers union.

After reading this story, we checked with the Congressman's office and were informed that his total office payroll is now running at the rate of more than $25,800 a year in addition to his own salary of $22,500.

Only two of the five secretaries are in Washington: Mrs. Cabell Waller, who receives $10,645 a year, and Yvonne Kurtak, $5,049.

The balance of the payroll is divided among Mrs. Roy Williams, who works in Mr. Kelley's Greensburg office at $4,450 a year; Francis Crum, who is also City Clerk of Monessen, supposedly a full-time job, $2,495, and, James Kelley, $3,203.

Congressman Kelley has long refused to make any distinction between his role as a lawmaker serving all the people of Westmoreland County and his role as a politician. Which might not be so bad if the taxpayers' money were not being used for purely political purposes.

Ike Conserves Energy for Main Duties

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

As President Eisenhower settles into his second term, at the end of which he will retire automatically, it is evident that he is taking numerous steps to reorganize his conduct of the presidency to conserve his health, his strength and his time.

Mr. Drummond

For several weeks now he has been giving up numerous chores which are peripheral to the White House but which most Presidents, including Mr. Eisenhower in the past, regularly performed. This is illustrated by his decision not to attend any of this the Union message he has center- White House press, the radio-TV correspondents, photographers, National Press Club, Women's National Press Club and Gridiron Club.

He has been obedient to his doctors' orders that he get recurring periods of relaxation from the heavy pressure of his duties. These have taken him out of Washington to Augusta and Thomasville, Ga., for two weeks and will take him to Florida before he flies to Bermuda to confer with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan March 20.

Ordered Regime

He observes a carefully ordered regime at the White House which usually includes a swim before lunch, a 45-minute noonday rest and often a short break from his desk in late afternoon after which he resumes staff conferences and other work. He aims to keep down night work as much as possible.

He seeks, whenever possible, to concentrate his energy and his time upon one over-riding problem at a time. Since the State of the Union message he has centered his energies almost exclusively upon the shifting aspects of the world crisis including the Middle East resolution, the Israeli-Egyptian conflict and the visits of several foreign dignitaries to the capital.

The second term re-ordering of his work schedule is consistent with his public announcements when he disclosed that he would seek reelection.

Statement Recalled

At that time he told the nation that "The opinions and the conclusions of the doctors contemplate for me a regime of ordered work activity, interspersed with regular amounts of exercise, recreation and rest." He said further: "But let me make one thing clear. As of this moment, there is not the slightest doubt that I can perform as well as I ever have all of the important duties of the presidency."

Mr. Eisenhower is now in process of determining, under the conditions which he foresaw and described, what he deems the "important duties of the presidency and the less important.

Some of these decisions will not be especially difficult. The decision not to attend the press-radio-TV dinners this year and perhaps not for the entire second term, gives him more free evenings.

Quite conceivably we will find that the volume and weight of the President's work load will move somewhat in cycles. This will mean that at various times he will have to bear down far harder than the "ordered regime" his doctors contemplated, and then he will be able to let up. He often worked 10 to 12 hours a day during the Israeli affair.

Peace Comes First

Obviously the tide of world events will not conform to medical orders. Should crises in the Near East, the Middle East or the Far East be less pressing for a period, there can be no guarantee there will not be domestic crises in and near Congress with which Mr. Eisenhower will have to deal or face the consequences.

I think I am accurately informed when I say that the President's first, foremost and almost unwavering priority will be his concern with building a more peaceful world — if it is within his power to do so — and with averting the catastrophe of another world war. To him everything else is secondary and will be so treated. He is convinced that the solutions of most other problems are secondary, are conditional upon the achievement of a more stable peace and that with that goal within reach, all else that is needful is attainable.

In domestic affairs he is delegating larger responsibility to the White House and cabinet team under Sherman Adams' management. But in close relationship with Mr. Dulles he continues to immerse himself in foreign policy.

However much it may tax the President I would expect that the trek of world statesmen — Nehru, King Saud, von Brentano, Guy Mollet and Macmillan — will continue, with others to come.

Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the President's personal physician, states that despite his cough Mr. Eisenhower's condition is unchanged since he was pronounced "fine" after a Feb. 21 check-up and the controlled regime of the White House is designed to enable him to stay that way.

Defense News Made an Issue

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The Army's court martial of Col. John Nickerson, Jr., senior officer of the Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala., for violating security, raises some important problems regarding security as far as news is concerned.

The Defense Department has sometimes been worried about newsmen who accidentally violated security by publishing something which might aid a foreign country. The Nickerson court - martial however, is a case where a newsperman has to worry about cooperating with the Defense Department. It violated the news ethics established in Washington for years.

Mr. Pearson

It happens that the Nickerson court martial was touched off through this column's concern that an Army document describing the relative merits of guided missiles might contain security information of aid to a Russian spy. The document, accordingly, was submitted to the Defense Department for guidance.

Colonel Nickerson, it now appears, was the probable author of this document, though I did not know this at the time. The document did not bear his name. Obviously written by a highly skilled technician who knows the battle between the Air Force and Army over guided missiles backward and forward, it was sent to certain congressmen in an effort to block Secretary Charles E. Wilson's order limiting the Army's work on guided missiles and favoring the Air Force instead.

Much Technical Data

The document contained certain data which obviously should not be published, much that could be published. It gave the performance figures on the Army's Jupiter C missile fired last September which hit a range of over 3,000 miles.

The document also announced the approximate time and place for the firing of the Air Force missile Thor in February. Publication of this would have given an enemy a chance to station a sub at sea to observe the test. The test was later postponed.

There were also data showing how the Air Force Thor and the Army's Jupiter were believed to be equal in performance, both being powered by oxygen-kerosene engines and guided by the inertial guidance system, etc.

The document also contained technical information on the counterjamming circuits being built into antiaircraft missiles like the Falcon and the Snark. Some performance statistics were given, which it appeared should not be published.

There was also a discussion of the Navy's experiments with solid propellents, a compact fuel better adapted to storing in submarines carrying guided missiles. The size of the Navy's propellent missiles was given, together with the date they would be ready for launching.

The document also discussed the record of Hitler's V2 missiles, all of which was history and therefore certainly not classified. It was pointed out that although the British checked the launching of these deadly weapons by bombing their launching sites, Hitler got around this by building mobile launchers.

The document also revealed that the Air Force's guidance mechanism for the Thor was developed by the AC Sparkplug Division of General Motors, while the Jupiter's guidance mechanism was developed by the Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville. Colonel Nickerson was senior officer here, and naturally had a right to be proud of his work. This was not, however, mentioned in the document.

Voluntary Censorship

For roughly 20 years, ever since Hitler's war clouds began to collect before Pearl Harbor, it has been my practice to consult with the Army, Navy, or Air Force regarding information which, if published, might be helpful to a potential enemy. This is also the practice of many newsmen in Washington. It is not compulsory.

During the war, an efficient, voluntary system of press censorship operated under Nat Howard, editor-on-leave from the Cleveland News. Many newsmen of their own accord have continued the principle of that system today.

The success of any such system requires cooperation from the armed services. They cannot violate a newsman's information, give it to any other reporter, or confiscate it.

Because of the obvious importance of the above-mentioned guided missiles document, my associate Jack Anderson submitted it to an authorized information office of the Pentagon for guidance as to what parts might harm the armed services, if published.

The document was not returned, either in whole or in part. It was confiscated and promptly made the basis for an investigation and subsequent court martial of Colonel Nickerson. At no time have I published anything from the document until today.

As far as I know, I have not met Colonel Nickerson nor have I ever talked to him. He has the reputation of being an extremely able, high-class officer. It was understandable that he should be zealous to continue a guided missile development in which he had achieved notable success.

I am not passing on the question of whether he should have submitted classified information to outsiders — if he did — though, so far as I know, no copies of the document went to any except patriotic Americans.

I might add that the seizing of a document submitted by a newsman for guidance is unprecedented during my experience in Washington. It makes much more difficult the voluntary machinery of asking the military's advice on news which might involve security — a system which benefits the military more than it does the newsman.

Most of the Pentagon officials, including the Secretary of the Air Force and the counsel of the Defense Department, I have reason to believe, favored return of the document. It was not a pentagon document, was not written by the Pentagon, was never seen by the Pentagon until submitted by Mr. Anderson.

Secretary of Defense Wilson personally refused its return.

I also asked that the Defense Department delete classified portions of the document and return the balance. This also was refused.

Behind The News—

Pressure on Soviet to Okay German Unity

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Pressure on Soviet Russia to agree to the reunification of Germany is likely to increase steadily in the next few months.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has made the unification issue the No. 1 topic in all discussions with foreign governments.

Mr. McCann

He is reminding the Soviet government at every opportunity that unification to him is an urgent matter, and that relations between Russia and West Germany never can be normal until West and East Germany are joined.

At the same time, Adenauer has started to seek the support of the United States and other Allied governments in new demands that the 12-year separation of the two parts of Germany be ended.

Considerable emphasis was put on reunification in the talks in Washington last week between West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Study Unification Problem

A committee of American, German, British and French experts started a study of the unification problem in Washington last week.

This committee was organized as the result of the Brentano-Dulles talks. A joint communique issued at the end of their talks said that unification remained a "fundamental objective."

It was announced in Bonn, the West German capital, last Friday that German ambassadors to the United States, Canada and all West European governments have been summoned to meet in West Berlin on April 24.

There is no doubt that unification will be the chief topic for discussion at this meeting.

Also, the fact that the meeting is to be held in Berlin, instead of Bonn, is a fresh reminder to the Russians that Adenauer looks forward to the day when Berlin again will be the all-German capital.

To Press Unification

It is indicated that Adenauer will press the unification question when foreign ministers of members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meet in Bonn on May 2.

Immediately after that, Adenauer is expected to visit President Eisenhower in Washington.

This meeting may well result in a decision to make a demand on the Soviet government that it agree to a realistic discussion of unification.

The big obstacle to any agreement is that the Russians will not agree to free elections under a unification agreement.

There is talk in Bonn that West Germany, which is not a member of the United Nations, may get Allied governments to raise the unification issue in the U.N. Assembly next fall.

West Germany Prosperous

West Germany is a prosperous country of more than 50 million people. East Germany is a drab depressed area in which 17 million people are held under the subjection of Communist puppet leaders and the Russian army. The East German people used to number 18 million. But 1 million of them have fled to Western Germany and the number of refugees is growing.

To Russia, unification is a horrid word. The Soviet government knows that in a free election, probably 90 per cent of East Germans would vote for a non-Communist unified country.

But unification is bound to come sooner or later. The longer it is put off, the less likely it will be that Russia can hope for really friendly relations with the Germany of the future.

There is talk of the possibility of an agreement under which Germany would be a neutral country. But Germany is well on the way to becoming a world power again. Its people are most unlikely to sit twiddling their thumbs as neutralists, watching world developments as spectators.

Spring Gardeners Are In for Strained Backs

By MARGARET LATROBE

If I were a chiropractor looking for a likely location, I'd hot foot it to the suburbs where garden clubs flourish. There are potential clients, soon to be uttering that classic cry of flower lovers: "h, my aching back!" There are the gardening husbands who greet the weekend with shrill exuberance, "Spring's here, but what happened to the 48 hyacinth bulbs?

Mrs. Latrobe

Garden club members and their spouses accumulate enough tortured sacroiliacs to keep a chiropractor in the kind of style permitting of full time professional gardeners. Bone and muscle menders can work hard two seasons a year, and catch bonefish on Andros Island between times.

Gardeners come down with screeching spinal columns during fall bulb planting season, then once again in springtime. Knees, hitherto free from inner friction, suddenly acquire all the agues of rheumatoid arthritis (said to be of emotional origin but don't let anybody pull your leg on that!), compound fractures and water on the. Shoulder blades behave in very pushy fashion, sharpening themselves on surrounding tissue which has its own ideas of revenge. Ankle bones, once connected to the leg bones, after a few croci were set out last November, do battle with the metatarsal arches.

Maybe it's fortunate that the memory of pain is brief. Fortunate for both flowers and chiropractors. Sure as spring peeks tentative green shoots above the peat moss, gardeners go galumphing outdoors to strain their backs and bank accounts all over again.

And it never ceases until fall. Bulbs are beautiful, truly — but how long do they last! Perennials are fine — but temperamental in their own way. They aren't content to reappear year after untidy year, minus new sites, new foodstuffs, new trimming jobs. About the time a man thinks the garden plot can fend for itself his wife decides otherwise.

"I think, dear," she says, wiping soil from an eyebrow, "that those peonies — yes, they would do better near the garage!" She just heard a lecture on it. "Now you run get four buckets of cinders," she adds. "Peonies need acid soil." Or is it alkaline? Anyway, fetch the cinders and ask no stupid questions, sir.

Better check to see if the heating pad is working too, for later use. And what's the chiropractor's phone number? After 400 bends and pull-ups in search of the once-there's and where-is and what happened to's, you will need him to unwind a couple of yards of ligaments.

Yes, were I in that branch of doctoring I'd locate near ageratum and tulip fanciers. And quickly hang out my shingle. No point missing the spring business!

Help for Woodpeckers

To the Editor:

About the woodpeckers and the utility companies (editorial column, March 7):

Since the timber has been cut away and there is no dead trees for the birds to nest in, they tap the poles. The holes the birds make in the dead wood trees, or poles, are to nest in, to raise their young.

Of course, in some of the old trees they would find some insects. The birds of course take care of them — that is what these birds were put here for, to eat the insects. There is so many different kinds of insects, that is why there is so many different kinds of birds.

(The English sparrows are the only birds I know of that eat the bean beetles.)

Now, what I think would help the utility companies: use some of their discarded poles, cut them in pieces 16 or 18 feet in length, bore a three-inch hole 12 feet up in it and bore three inches in at the top so the peckers can get in and nest to raise their young. They will not tap so many of their poles.

The male woodpeckers do the boring. They make their holes 16 feet to 40 feet up from the ground.

I used to know four different birds that made holes in dead trees to raise their young: the woodpecker, the flicker, another bird about three times bigger than a flicker and the sapsucker, a small bird.

Take care of the birds. Don't kill a one. Feed them in the winter. I feed them ever winter.

Steel in Slight Slump

CLEVELAND (UP)—Steel production dropped to 95 per cent of capacity last week for the lowest rate yet recorded this year, Steel Magazine reported today. Net tonnage of about 2.4 million represented a decline of two points from the previous week's rate, the metalworking weekly said.

The industry expects more fluctuations during the remainder of March and April, but there are indications that demand will take an upswing late in the second quarter. The magazine attributed the slump to two factors: An easing in demand; and a strike at an oxygen producing plant which reduced oxygen supplies to steel plants.

The publication's industrial production index for the latest week maintained its 161 percent over the 1947-1949 base period. It predicted that production would continue strong because of high order backlogs.

Shipments of fabricated structural steel were reported at their highest rate in the industry's history, with backlogs climbing each month. Machine tool producers began the current year with a backlog of little over six months, and steel forgers and castings each representing between three and four months of production at current rates.

All-time Backlogs

Industrial furnaces had an all-time peacetime high on backlogs on Jan. 1 totalling about $110.5 million. New orders declined toward the year's end, but shipments increased. Steel says that shipments by the freight car industry have shown strength, although new orders have shown a steady drop since 1955. Judging from its current production rates, the magazine says, the freight car industry will require about 45 months to catch up on its backlog.

The magazine warned that increasing production rates of reinforced plastics products during the last two years represents a challenge to the metals industries It said that close to 70,000 tons of such products were made during 1956, representing a 30 per cent rise over the 1955 rate. Projections for the coming year indicate the rate increase will be duplicated—mostly in the automobile, aircraft and materials industries.

First child born in the White House was Elizabeth Tyler, granddaughter of President John Tyler, in 1842.

Minority Group In Proxy Victory At Wilkes Barre

NEWARK, N. J. (UP) — The Glen Alden Corp., of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., announced Sunday it will terminate its agreement to purchase Maremont Automotive Products, Inc., of Chicago in a proxy victory by a three man minority group of the Glen Alden board of directors.

A Glen Alden spokesman said the seven member board decided Saturday night at a meeting of the Blue Coal Corp., here to terminate the multi-million dollar contract. Blue Coal is a Glen Alden subsidiary.

A special meeting of the stockholders scheduled for Tuesday to vote on the proposed acquisition will be recessed for two weeks in view of the decision to terminate the agreement, the spokesman said.

Board members Gilbert McClintock and Francis O. Case, both of Wilkes-Barre, and Wentworth P. Johnson of Philadelphia, had opposed the acquisition of Maremont.

Champ Drowns in Body Hunt

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UP) — Apolonio Castillo, Mexican Olympic swimming champion was drowned early today while searching Acapulco harbor for the bodies of two murdered New York tourists.

Castillo, 32, was one of several frogmen looking for the bodies of attorney Joseph Michel, 70, and Mrs. Edith Hallock, 63, who were killed and tossed into the harbor by a Mexican travel agent and his illiterate handy man.

Castillo, who represented Mexico in the 1956 Olympics, was wearing an aqualung when he disappeared. It was not known if his oxygen failed.

Luis Fenton, 33, a hotel tourist agency owner, and Daniel Rios admitted Sunday they beat Michel and Mrs. Hallock to death with a baseball bat on Feb. 20, after robbing them of $80,000 worth of jewelry and about $160 in cash. The victims' bodies, bound in chains, were tossed from a glass-bottomed boat.

A Simple Boat Ride

"It was just a matter of arranging a simple boat ride," mastermind Fenton, 33, told police.

Rios, 35-year-old father of five children, who worked for Fenton for $1.60 a day, said Fenton offered him 30,000 pesos ($2,400) to bludgeon Michel and the wealthy widow with a baseball bat.

The fatal voyage in a glass bottom boat lasted only 40 minutes, the murderers said, then they returned to shore and calmly took another tourist couple out into the bay to fish until 1 a.m.

Police took the confessed killers out on the boat Sunday to re-enact the crime a mile off this famous scenic resort.

The men said Michel was killed first. Fenton held the struggling Mrs. Hallock while Rios knocked her unconscious, "Just like I was hitting out home runs," Rios said.

"Michel never knew what hit him," he said.

"It Was Simple"

When Mrs. Hallock leaped to her feet, Fenton grabbed her while Rios hit her with the bat, according to the confessions.

"It was simple," Rios said, "there was no struggle. There was only one little yelp. I don't think they really knew what hit them."

Rios told police he did not hesitate when Fenton offered him 30,000 pesos to wield the bat.

"I would die for 30,000 pesos," he said. "It was just the same to me—murder or robbery—when I heard about the 30,000 pesos."

Rios said he was "only a little sorry" for what he had done and "probably" would do it again, "if I got the chance."

Japan Asks Soviet To Quit Nuclear Test

The demand, delivered in Moscow two days ago, followed three formal protests to Britain asking it to call off its Christmas Island hydrogen bomb experiments.

Japan also recalled that in February last year it delivered to the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union resolutions adopted by the Japanese parliament appealing to the three major powers to suspend nuclear tests.

ON THE BALL

Thiry Now Living in Fallowfield

Al Thiry, the 6-3 freshman member of the Monessen High basketball team, is now living with his sister and brother-in-law in Fallowfield Twp. Al was forced to leave the city when his mother passed away recently. However he is still free to attend classes at Monessen since Fallowfield has no high school of its own. As a matter of fact, Thiry is still enrolled at MHS. And he plans to stay there, even though he is free to transfer to any other district school. The situation is somewhat colored by the fact that his sister's children have attended Charleroi High. One boy — a good-looking athlete at Fallowfield this season — will enroll in the Cougar school next term . . . At MHS, principal Henry Furio claims no pressure will be exerted on Al to keep him here because of his tremendous basketball potential. "Naturally we'd like to keep him," says Furio, "but we want what's best for Al. The decision is his."

Charleroi High basketballers rested up for their tourney appearance the other night by lolling around Webster Hall, a Pittsburgh Hotel in Oakland near the Field House . . . Incidentally this is Charleroi's eleventh appearance in the WPIAL Basketball Tournament. Only in 1940 did the Cougars go all the way. They lost their first PIAA game, though, bowing to Farrell (then the Distrcit 10 representative) by a 23-22 score . . . Ted Zots, Centerville High football tackle last season, is very much interested in enrolling at West Virginia University.

Dukes Lose Frosh After Exams

No less than seven members of Duquesne University's 13-man freshmen basketball team flunked out after semester examinations. However the three big boys on the team made the grade and they figure to give the Dukes another good club next season . . . Proceeds from the recent Monongahela Booster Club Basketball Tournament, will be used to help finance the club's PONY League baseball program during the summer . . . St. Vincent College will lose only one member of the current basketball cast through graduation. He is Jerry Marco, ex of Latrobe. There are so many good boys returning that Coach Dodo Canterna flatly predicts that the Bearcats will have a great team next season. "If we can land a couple of boys about 6-6 or better to help us on the boards, I'm sure that we'll be able to hold our own in any company," enthuses Canterna.

At Monongahela, school officials report that the Wildcats will take part in the Big Six Track Meet this season. Redstone also plans a cinder team, thus providing the meet with full representation for the first time in its history . . . Only 1177 tickets were sold in Charleroi for the WPIAL Tournament game with Derry Twp. last week . . . Two Farrell High cage streaks ended this season. In December, Altoona tripped Farrell to stop the Steelers' 99 game string at home. Sharon's win in the season finale marked Farrell's first league loss at home in 48 games.

Urbanik Next Valley Grid Great

Our choice as the next "super" football product in the Mon Valley is Tom Urbanik, of Donora. The 15-year old sophomore now tips the beams at 208. He was great as the Dragon fullback last season despite a poor line in front of him. With two years to go, he looks forward to a brilliant future . . . But here's additional evidence that the kid can't miss. He's an above average student with an even temperment. He's easy to handle and follows a strict training routine. Moreover he has great speed as well as power. At the moment, Urbanik is rounding into shape for the track season. He heaved the shot put over 50 feet as a Junior High competitor last season. But his favorite events are the 100 and 220 yard dashes, a tip off to his speed.

Today's Sports Parade —

Former Rivals Back Together with Braves

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Spring training, it is evident today as the major league teams go through their warmup paces, make for strange bedfellows and dreams which often turn into nightmares.

Take the camps of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Milwaukee Braves. One is on Florida's east coast and the other on the west coast, separated by a few miles of pines and orange groves.

But to three players they must seem a million miles in the past.

At the Braves camp in Bradenton, there are a pair of room mates named Bobby Thomson and Andy Pafko. That's the same Thomson whose home run gave the New York Giants the 1951 National League pennant in a movie script playoff against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Pafko Watched It Sail

The other is the same Pafko who stood in left field for the Dodgers that afternoon and disconsolately watched the ball sail over his head and into the stands.

Room mates now.

And just across the state, the man who pitched the ball which Thomson hit over Pafko's head—a fellow named Ralph Branca—is wearing the Dodger again and dreaming of a comeback.

Branca hasn't been a pitcher since Thomson slugged that ball. It's open to debate whether it was that blast or bad breaks which ruined him.

Big Ralph had been a good one until then. He was a 21-game winner in 1947 and one of the workhorses of the Dodgers that 1951 season when Thomson's home run broke the Dodgers' hearts. Since then the six-foot, three-inch Branca has been lost, pitching little over the past five years and practically none for the last two.

He'll tell you that a chair slid out from under him in the spring of 1952 and he hurt his back. Some insist that Thomson's bat moved the furniture.

Down The Ladder

Whichever is so, Branca had a record of only four wins against two defeats in 1952. Then began a pilgrimage down the ladder—Detroit, the Yankees and Minneapolis—as he scored but one win in 1953 and had a three-and-three mark in 1954 before Minneapolis gave up on him.

He came out of retirement last summer to pitch batting practice and looked so good that Brooklyn signed him. They used him only once, being involved in a heated pennant race and remembering the past. But big Ralph is back this spring.

"I'm throwing as hard as I did in 1951," he says. "I think I can make it."

The Dodgers are watching. So, too, must be the room mates across the state.

Turners Win in Tournament

Capture Volleyball Crown

The Monessen Turners crack volleyball team took top honors over the weekend in the Meadville YMCA Open tournament.

Coach Bud Giannini's spikers knocked off Buffalo, 15-5 and 15-9; Oil City, 15-11 and 15-9.

Thus, they didn't lose a match enroute to the title.

The championship was the second of the season for the Turners in five tournaments. They also placed second twice and concluded fifth once.

Parsons Stars

Bob Parsons led the Monessen spiking over the weekend while Lou Kunka stood out on set-up action. Defensively, the entire Monessen team played brilliantly.

Members of the tournament squad included Giannini, Parsons, Kunak, Nick Sowko, Len Kachmarek, and George Vlasic.

The Turners will take part in at least three more major tournaments this season: They plan trips to the Cleveland YMCA show, the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, and the Turners National Tourney in St. Louis.

Athletic Director At CSTC Speaks In Belle Vernon

Gene Hester, basketball coach and athletic director at California State Teachers, spoke on youth guidance yesterday at the Holy Name breakfast in St. Sebastian Church, Belle Vernon.

His listeners included basketball players from Rostraver and Bellmar, guests of honor at the affair.

Hester said the responsibility for guiding youth rested with the home, church and school. He emphasized that the initial guidance must come from the home.

The CSTC official also pointed out the wonderful advantages afforded today's youth in the form of recreational facilities.

Bellmar coach Jack Flora introduced his team, while Rostraver athletic director Jim Weir introduced the Leopard varsity quint as well as the championship Junior High squad.

Francis Hornbake spoke in behalf of the Knights of Columbus while Art LaPointe, Holy Name president, offered brief remarks.

The toastmaster was Clair Brown, sports editor of the Monongahela Daily Republican. Rev. Henry Murphy offered the benediction and invocation.

Shantz Looks Good In Debut as Yank

By FRED DOWN

The New York Yankees' best hopes and the American League's worst fears were fanned today as a result of Bobby Shantz's Grapefruit League debut.

The hard-luck left - hander, dogged by injuries since he was the league's most valuable player in 1952, spun three scoreless innings as the Yankees beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 9-6, Sunday and reported his arm felt fine. He yielded only two hits and struck out two batters.

The Yankees had a couple of other items to cheer about as they gained their first victory of the spring. Mickey Mantle played four innings and delivered two hits, stole a base and scored three runs. And Andy Carey, fighting for his job at third base, hammered a three-run homer off Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell to spark a four-run first-inning.

Landis Leads Chisox

Rookie sensation Jim Landis, only a .257-hitter at Memphis last year, continued his bid to win a regular job with the Chicago White Sox with a perfect day at the plate in a 6-4 win over the Cincinnati Redlegs. Landis smashed a triple, a double and two singles and knocked in the game-winning runs in the seventh inning.

The Pittsburgh Pirates scored their second straight victory when they beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-4. Hank Foiles collected four singles and Bill Mazeroski had a double and two singles to lead the Pirates' 13-hit attack. Bob Friend yielded two runs and six hits in three innings.

A crowd of 10,600 at Miami saw the Milwaukee Braves shell Sal Maglie for three homers and six hits in less than four innings enroute to a 7-4 decision over the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers. Hank Aaron and Ed Mathews kayoed Maglie when they led off the fourth inning with homers and Johnny Podres, making his first appearance since his discharge from the Navy, was tapped for two more runs.

In other Grapefruit League action:

Vic Power and Jim Pisoni hit two-run homers as the Athletics crushed the Detroit Tigers, 13-4.

Pedro Ramos and Camilo Pascual, Washington's much-sought-after pitchers, collaborated in a seven-hitter that gave the Senators a 4-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Gail Harris, who had wallopwed a three-run homer in the fifth, singled with the bases filled and two out in the 10th inning to give the New York Giants a 9-8 win over the Cleveland Indians. And Bill O'Dell, Mike Fornieles and Don Ferrarese combined in a two-hit pitching effort as the Baltimore Orioles downed the Chicago Cubs, 6-0.

Panthers Head For NCAA Play

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pitt Panthers fly to Columbus, Ohio, this afternoon for Tuesday's opening round of the NCAA basketball tournament.

Next December, the Panthers will head east for the annual Holiday Festival Tournament in New York's Madison Square Garden.

The Eastern College Athletic Conference picked Pitt one of eight teams to compete in the Christmas tourney. The invite is the first for the Panthers.

Other entries will be California, Seattle, Dayton, Connecticut, Manhattan, New York University and Temple.

Pirates Meet Senators Today

FT. Myers, Fla. (UP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates, victors over the Philadelphia Phils in their initial two exhibition games, try their luck on an American League entry today.

The Bucs meet the Washington Senators at Terry Park here with Ron Kline, Bennie Daniels and Chuck Churn scheduled to handle three innings each of the pitching chore.

Dick Stuart homered. Hank Foiles went four for four and Bill Mazeroski connected for three hits as the Pirates downed the Phils, 7-4, in the Terry Field opener Sunday.

Luis Arroyo turned in an impressive pitching job in his three-inning stint. He gave up three walks but no hits and managed to put down the Phils in the fifth without a run after giving up walks to the first two batters.

Teams Clash in Quarter-Finals At Field House

Charleroi High's Section 5 champions will meet aggressive Washington tonight at the Pitt Field House in a quarter-final test of the WPIAL Basketball Tournament.

During the season, Charleroi trampled Washington, 80-57.

However tonight's game figures to be much tougher for a number of reasons.

To begin with, few tourney games are runaways. The pressure somehow "evens" off most contenders.

That has been particularly true of the current floor show. Most games have been decided in the closing moments by a point or two.

Special Incentive

Washington has a special incentive for tonight's contest. The Little Prexies are still hopping mad over the earlier loss to the Cougars.

Washington Coach Bill Laughlin stormed into the dressing room after that game, vowing that it would be a different story if the teams happened to meet in the tourney.

Fate has destined that they should get together again, so Laughlin will have a chance to live up to his boast.

The Prexies, while not rated with the elite of the current tournament, do have probably the WPIAL's finest player. He is 5-10 James (Beanie) Gordon, a marvelous all-around star.

Gordon is the team's best shot, best floorman and best rebounder. In short, he's the best.

Not Consistent

Unhappily, the rest of the Washington cast has been somewhat inconsistent.

Joining Beanie in the starting array will be Bob McConnell, 5-11; Chuck Smith, 6-3; Don Ferrell, 6-1, and Herky King, 5-9. Gordon and McConnell are seniors, while Smith and King are juniors and Ferrell a sophomore.

The sixth man is Ken Gamble, 6-1.

The Prexies have a 19-3 record. They lost only to Uniontown and Mt. Lebanon, in addition to Charleroi.

Coach Henry Pennline's Cougars, who barely squeaked by Derry Twp. 53-51, in a first round tourney test last week, are still favored to handle Washington.

Sticks with Cougars

The experts seem to feel that the towering Cougars are better than that Derry score would seem to indicate.

The starting Charleroi lineup will include Bob Boda, 6-2; Myron Pottios, 6-2; Ollie Payne, 6-4; Carl Witmyer, 6-1, and George Schoener, 6-3.

That outfit — along with sixth man 5-11 Jimmy Chacko — has handled 22 of 23 foes this season, losing only in overtime at Uniontown.

MHS Spikers in Debut Tomorrow

Greyhound Volleyballers Will Take Part in Bentleyville Show

Monessen High's 1957 volleball team will make its debut tomorrow evening in a tournament at the Bentleyville High gym.

Other entries will include the host Bears, Waynesburg, Ellsworth and Charleroi. Activity is scheduled to begin at 7 p. m.

MHS Coach John (Corky) DeMillion has only one holdover regular from last year's great team which won the PIAA title. He is Carl Crawley.

However DeMillion is not too pessimistic. The Greyhounds usually come up with a pretty good volleyball club.

Should Win

At any rate, they are expected to get by the Bentleyville show in spite of their inexperience.

Other members of the MHS travelling squad will be Tom Churan, Alvin Bost, Jim Baker, George Selelyo, Marvin Scales, Terry Throop, Bill Mackinen, C. L. Melenyzer and Bill Donnell.

DeMillion, while conceding that his boys lack necessary experience under pressure, is still "high" on his current squad.

Good Account

"We may not match last year's great record, but we should give a good account of ourselves," reported the MHS boss.

Significantly, Crawley is the only senior in the current Greyhound cast.

Monessen's big test will come on March 22 at the annual WPIAL Tournament at North Braddock Scott. The winner in that show will represent District Seven in the state-wide event at University Park.

County Sportsmen To Meet Tonight

There will be a Board of Directors meeting of the Westmoreland County Sportsmen League tonight at 8 p. m. in the Penn Rod and Gun Club at Jeannette.

NAIA Tourney Begins Tonight In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Basketball Tournament opened today for a week-long run with Pacific Lutheran of Parkland, Wash., given the best chance of winning the championship.

There was no defending champion this year since McNeese, La., College did not survive in its own region.

Officials gave Lutheran, undefeated in college play, top-seeding in the tournament. It plays its first game at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Play in the mammoth 32-team field began today with Eastern Illinois playing Highlands of New Mexico. Seven other games are scheduled today and tonight and eight more Tuesday to complete the first round.

Pacific Lutheran won 25 games and lost only one to the Seattle Bakers, 1956 National AAU champions, during the season. The team is led by Chuck Curtis, a 6-5 sophomore forward who averaged 19.9 points and 14.8 rebounds per game.

Seeded Second

Youngstown, Ohio, with a 19-3 record, was seeded second, and West Virginia Tech, boasting a 103-point average, third. Completing the ranked teams in order were Western Illinois, Portland, Ore., Hamline, Southeastern Oklahome and Texas Southern.

Texas Southern, an all-Negro outfit from Houston, Tex., which was runner-up to McNeese a year ago, was dropped to eighth seed this time "because the field is the strongest in many years," according to NAIA executive secretary Al O. Duer. Texas Southern returns most of its team.

West Virginia Tech plays Willa Madonna, Ky., at 11:30 EST tonight.

Millersville, Pa. vs Central (Wis.) State, this afternoon.

Providence Heads For Hockey Title

By UNITED PRESS

Twin triumphs during the weekend established the Providence Reds today as "shoo-ins" for the American Hockey League championship.

Providence slugged second-place Rochester, 8-0, Sunday to stretch its league lead to five points. Even if Rochester sweeps its remaining four games, the Reds need but split their quartette to win a second consecutive AHL championship.

Other games Sunday saw Jimmy Anderson's hat trick spearhead a 12-3 Springfield rout of Hershey, and Fred Glover's final period goal gave Cleveland a 4-3 come - from-behind win over Buffalo.

Johnny Bower, the AFL's leading goalie and the "guts" of the Providence Reds all season, threw up a brick wall against Rochester while eight different Providence teammates blasted through the Rochester defense for scores. The shut-out was Bower's fourth, and most important.

Delany Continues To Win Mile Track Events

By UNITED PRESS

Ron Delany, rapidly becoming one of the most unpopular mile champions in indoor track history, leads the talent-rich Villanova University squad to Chicago this Saturday for the Daily News Meet, leaving two eastern meets with colorful but less important cards.

Delany became the first man in history to sweep all Madison Square Garden miles two straight years Saturday when he won the Columbian Mile in the Knights of Columbus Meet that wound up the Garden season.

But Delany's time was only 4:09.4, and his performanse was overshadowed by Milt Campbell's 6.1 serond effort in winning the 50-yard high hurdles and the Rev. Bob Richards' pole vault of 15 feet, 5½ inches at the Milwaukee Journal Games as the weekend's top showings.

Most of the Olympic champion and other "headline" entries are expected to compete in the Daily News Meet this Saturday. In the East, Olympic hurdles champion Lee Calhoun is among the stars entered in the New York Pioneer Club Games, a flat-floor event in New York City, while the eight Ivy League schools, plus Army and Navy, will compete in the Heptagonal Games at Ithaca, N.Y.

Art Wall Wins $2,000 in Golf Show at Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UP) —Art Wall, always a steady wage-earner on golf's tourney trail but seldom the big prize winner, guaranteed his 1957 success today with a $2,000 check for winning the Pensacola Open Tournament.

Wall, of Pocono Manor, Pa., had to come from behind to turn the trick on the final 18 holes Sunday —overtaking Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, on the eighth green with an eagle and remaining in front the rest of the way with a masterful six-under-par 66.

North Carolina Finally Earns Spot in NCAA Basketball Show

By JOHN GRIFFIN

North Carolina, knowing that it faces the toughest job ever handed to the nation's No. 1 team, was squarely on the spot today as the four-ring circus known as "Tournament Time" opened in college basketball.

The top-ranked, unbeaten Tar Heels earned a berth in the NCAA tournament Saturday night when they won the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney, but Coach Frank McGuire's squad now stands less than halfway along the road to proving its No. 1 national ranking.

Never before in history has a team called the "nation's best" been asked to win as many post-season games in a row as the Tar Heels.

Need Five More

The total is eight games—three in the ACC Tourney, and then five more in the NCAA. By contrast, second - ranked Kansas will need to win only four games, all in the NCAA, to win the crown and so will third-ranked Kentucky and fourth-ranked Southern Methodist.

The Tar Heels wrapped up the ACC title with a 95-75 romp over South Carolina in the finals as their Lennie Rosenbluth outscored Grady Wallace, 38-28, in a duel of All - Americans. Rosenbluth set a new league record with 106 points in the three tourney games, and Wallace also was over the old mark with a total of 100.

West Virginia nailed down the last berth in the NCAA tourney Saturday when it captured the Southern Conference championship with a 67-52 victory over Washington and Lee in the tourney finals. Six-10 Lloyd Sharrar, who had 50 points and 55 rebounds in three games, outshone Mountaineer teammate Hot Rod Hundley to win Most Valuable Player" honors.

Tourney Action Listed

The regular court season now is over, and here's the set-up on the four big post-season tournaments this week:

NCAA Major College: Opens tonight with a first-rounder at Pocatello, Idaho, in which Idaho State (24-2) is a slight choice over Hardin-Simmons (17-8), a substitute team from the Border Conference. Tuesday night there are six first-rounders — three in New York, two in Chicago, and one in Oklahoma City. The eight first-round winners go into four regionals Friday and Saturday — at Philadelphia, Lexington, Ky., Dallas, and Corvallis, Ore. Regional winners go to the semi-finals and finals at Kansas City, March 22-23.

National Invitation (12 teams) Opens Saturday with three games. Seattle and Bradley are the only seeded teams in the Madison Square Garden carnival, which also winds up on March 23.

NCAA Small College: The eight survivors of last week's first and second rounders meet Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, at Evanston, Ill.

NAIA Tournament: (32 teams) Weeklong play opens tonight in Kansas City, with eight first-rounders, then eight more Tuesday. Unbeaten Pacific Lutheran is top-seeded and favored.

Accept Berth in Holiday Festival

NEW YORK (UP)— California, Seattle and Dayton have accepted invitations to appear as "guest competitors" in next season's Holiday Festival basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden.

The Eastern College Athletic Conference announced that the field also will include Connecticut, Manhattan, New York University, Pittsburgh and Temple. The tournament dates are Dec. 26, 28 and 30.

Manhattan won the tournament last December by beating Niagara, Ohio State and Notre Dame.

Plan Tag Day For Kadis Here Next Saturday

A tag day for the benefit of Richard Kadis, injured Geneva College football player, will be staged in Monessen next Saturday.

The event will be promoted by the Greek Ladies Aid Society. In charge will be Mrs. Nick Pagonis.

Mrs. Pagonis said that high school students have been recruited to help with the soliciting. All money will be forwarded to the Kadis family.

Medical bills have totaled almost $20,000, forcing his family to mortgage all of their possessions.

Sports fans in the Tri-State district have rallied to the cause. So far, almost enough money has been donated to match the increasing medical bills. ....

York Takes Top Honors in PIAA Swim Tourney

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP) —York High School captured three first places, two seconds and set a record for the 200-yard medley relay in capturing the 1957 PIAA swimming championships Saturday.

A Mt. Lebanon swimmer, however, captured individual honors, with two victories, one in record time.

Tom Lindsey breast-stroked to a 1:01.3 mark over a 100-yard distance to better by more than a second the old mark set two years ago by Bob Griffin of Pittsburgh's Schenley High. He also won the individual medley.

York placed in every event and captured both important relays to collect 64 points. Runnerup Lancaster trailed with 38.

Mt. Lebanon notched 17 points, Abington 15, Pittsburgh South Hills 14, Clairton 13, Coatesville 13, Allentown 12, Cheltenham 12, Erie Academy 12, Pittsburgh Schenley 7, Meadville 6, Hazelton 5, Erie Strong Vincent 5, Pittsburgh Oliver 4, Pittsburgh Peabody 4 and Erie East 1.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Reports Record Sales

Harry B. Higgins, board chairman, and David G. Hill, president, said sales last year rose to $596,773,825, as compared with $581,966,244 in 1955.

Net earnings, which peaked at $61,433,716, or $6.26 a share in 1955 dropped to $55,381,720 or $5.62 a share last year, a dip of almost 10 per cent.

The company officers, in the annual report to stockholders, said Pittsburgh's glass, paint and fiber glass plants operated at near capacity last year, despite a lag in the demand for automobile glass. The firm restored inventories which had been depleted during the high demand of 1955.
